A fresh high school graduate with an unquenchable hunger for tech, especially, software development/ engineering. Within six months of finishing from high school, and studying online on my own, I have become a fully certified Front-end Developer with an eye for web design distinction and excellence, passionate about ensuring better user experience (UX) by designing beautiful, scalable and very interactive user interfaces.I seek internship opportunities with organizations where my acquired skills could be fully deployed and utilized whilst learning new skills on my way to becoming a full professional Front-end Developer. . .
